NEW FRANKFORT.

In last week's Rustler brother B, one of the tender-hearted, Good Hope anti-expansion Aguilardotes, pitches into your poor correspondent, without mercy, invoking the shades of Hannibal as he flailed upon wine from Carthage centuries ago. We have little reply to make as his article is words, mere empty words; we personally know him to be a very genial gentleman with an active heart and brain, excepting the seat marked polities which has been completely stifled by Missouri moss, and that has recently been inundated with the restless little lunatic germs of Bryanism; cheer up brother B, this old world is alright; it's a pleasant place to live in, we are all having a pretty good time; we have whipped Aguilardote, the prudeless Philippines are ours, we are the greatest people on earth today, we have one of the greatest and best men in the world for our president, the recent elections proved us to have the smartest people in the world; excepting in the little state of Nebraska; so let us be happy and sing, shake brother B, I cannot argue with a defeated foe.

Dr T J Sullivan reports a case of diphtheria treated successfully by antitoxin at Chas Schellenberg's James Canotte sick with pneumonia; Robert Wood's little daughter, congestion of liver and stomach; Martin Lenz Sr, endocarditis; Jos Reisacher, bronchitis; Louis Walker, malaria; Prof Harold's little daughter, congestion of stomach and bowels; Rosalie Hayes, malaria; Chas Beck, convalescing from typhoid fever; Mrs Chas Thierfelder making a good recovery from a broken and dislocated elbow; also the arrival of a bouncing girl baby at the home of Charles Kirby.

Mrs Katherine Kroecker, a well-known German lady of this town, died last week of what is supposed to have been pneumonia; she died without medical attention, her daughter Annie who is a Christian Scientist, refusing the aid of medicines, which would probably have saved her mother's life. "What fools these mortals be."

Rev Barthel gave a severe lecture to gamblers Sunday night; it was right amusing, however, to watch his leading deacon's nodding approval of the sermon, at the same time unconsciously chewing desperately on about 50 worth of Yucatan.

Squire Sydenstricker conducted the Coroner's Inquest over the body of Miss Lydia Boston, the suicide of last week.

Anthony Guerin, of Gilliam, seems much interested over here at the beak church.

Adria Rhodes and Harley Huff are trying very hard to break each other's hearts.

Frank Thierfelder was out walking with his sweetheart Sunday evening.

Joe Hawkins and his prettiest girl worshipped here Sunday eve.

Mr Ellis, of Sharon, visited one of his fair friends here Sunday.
